But They'll Be Sufferers

NO THOUGHTS of war fill the minds of these Sudeten German children who gleefully play ring-around-the-rosy about a signpost which marks the German-Czech border.

French Fleeing Border District

STRASBOURG, France, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Strasbourg, facing Germany across the Rhine, emptied its people along highways and railroad lines to the interior of France today.

It was estimated that 80,000 of its 200,000 people had left the city by noon today.

About half the city's shops were closed. The hotels were nearly empty. Most restaurants and hotels stopped serving meals, except for simple one course ones.

An official source said that the mayor of every frontier town, village and hamlet in the frontier region had a sealed envelope to be opened if war broke out, giving instructions on evacuating the population.

MOULD ON FLORENCE FARM GIVES UP THREE SKELETONS OF INDIANS

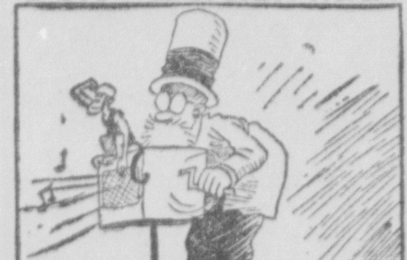

Excavation of a prehistoric Indian mound is under way on the Anna Florence farm near Fox. The work will be completed in a week or ten days.

So far two adult skeletons and one of a baby have been unearthed. In addition fragments of pottery and some elk horns have been found.

The mound is about 60 feet across and four feet high. The skeletons were found in a pit. They had been placed on bark and covered with bark.

The work is being conducted for the Ohio State Museum by Dr. R. G. Morgan and his assistant, Robert Goslin, Columbus.

BULLITT ISSUES PLEA

Trainload From Czech Land Arrives In Zurich; Garbo Makes Reservation

LONDON, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Thousands of Americans congregated at European seaports today seeking hurried passage for home because of threatening war.

At Paris, the United States lines announced that the S. S. Washington, due at Havre tonight, would take on a capacity load of Americans, giving preference to women and children, and proceed at once to New York, canceling a scheduled stop at Hamburg, Germany, because of its full load.

Cots were being installed on the Washington and on the S. S. President Roosevelt which sails Friday, to accommodate more passengers. Extra lifeboats and life preservers were being taken on. Only Americans were being given reservations and 1,000 had already signed on United States lines ships. Other trans-Atlantic lines were making no reservations beyond this week.

Bullitt Issues Appeal

William C. Bullitt, United States Ambassador to France, had messaged the United States lines, urging that passengers with extra beds in their cabins be prevailed on to offer them to refugees. He said "I feel sure passengers will be more than willing to do this since it will permit a substantially greater number of fellow citizens to return home."

The American embassy at Berlin for the first time today advised all Americans who inquired (Continued on Page Two)

SAFETY COUNCIL SEES SAVING OF 8,500 IN NATION

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—(UP)—The United States is on the way to saving approximately 8,500 lives this year, the National Safety Council reported today.

The saving, the report said, would be made in the reduction of automobile accident fatalities during 1938 as against 1937.

The prediction was made in conjunction with announcement that for the tenth consecutive month—during August—the nation's traffic toll has been less than the corresponding month of the year before.

"If the last four months of this year bring reductions equal to those in the first eight months," the council said, "the fatality total for the year will be approximately 31,000—8,500 less than the 1937 total."

The report listed 2,900 traffic deaths in the United States during August, a saving of 860 lives as compared with the 3,760 killed during August, 1937. It brought the total number of lives saved during the first eight months of this year to 5,070.

Wyoming reported the greatest percentage drop for the eight months—41 percent. Michigan and Pennsylvania followed with decreases of 39 and 38 percent.

BALLOT CONTRACT LET

Fitzpatrick's printers have been granted the contract to furnish ballots for the Fall election. The county board of elections said about 15,000 ballots will be used. There were two bidders for the work.

Field To Sign Name And Receive Great Fortune

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Marshall Field III, grandson and namesake of the Chicago merchant prince, receives today—his 45th birthday—a fortune estimated at $100,000,000. To get it he must only sign his name.

The fortune is only a slice of a $500,000,000 estate, one of the world's greatest, which his grandfather left in trust for him under terms of an iron-clad will, a 22,000 word document said to be the longest and most foolproof of its kind ever written.

The exact amount in hundreds of millions that Field will inherit today is not known, possibly not even by Field himself. He has declined to discuss the matter but attorneys who have handled the estate and close friends believed it would total $100,000,000 if not more. The amount represents accrued interest since the elder Field died in 1906. From now until Field III is 50 he will receive an income estimated at $20,000,000 a year and on Sept. 28, 1943—his 50th birthday—the entire $500,000,000 will be his own.

He is publicity shy. He lives quietly and with as little demonstration as possible in a 56-room home on a 2,000 acre estate at Lloyd Harbor, L. I. He lives with his third wife, the former Mrs. Ruth Pruyn Phipps. He has five children, four by his first wife, the former Evelyn Marshall and one by his present wife. His second wife was the present Mrs. Audrey James Coats.

The transfer was to be made in secrecy and it was not known whether it would be made at Long Island or Chicago. Field's attorney said, however, that the ceremony would take only a few minutes, time for a few preliminaries and for Field to sign his name in the presence of witnesses.

FIST FIGHT WITH FORMER FRIEND KILLS YOUTH, 16

CINCINNATI, Sept. 28.—(UP)—A fist fight with a former companion was blamed by authorities today for the death of 16-year-old Robert Baur, Boy Scout leader and St. Bernard high school pupil.

John Hardiman, 17, was quoted by juvenile authorities as saying that the fight started when Robert called him "a name." Hardiman was said to have struck the other boy once on the nose and twice in the chin in a city park.

The Baur boy went down under the blows, was taken to the office of Dr. J. E. Cunningham, and was pronounced dead there, police said.

Hardiman was quoted as saying that his friendship with Baur ended two months ago when they argued over a cigarette.

"We were buddies until one night when I asked Bob for a cigarette," Hardiman said. "He took a cigarette from a package and tossed it to me. It fell in a puddle of water. I told him I couldn't smoke that. He said 'Smoke it anyway.' 'I told him, 'If that's the way you are going to be we aren't buddies any more.'"

Dizzy Dean Hurls Cubs Nearer Top Of League

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Roaring, red-faced Gabby Hartnett sent his Chicago Cubs thundering after Pittsburgh's tiny half game lead in the National League pennant race today with the Pirates already reeling from a defeat by the greatest money pitcher of them all, Dizzy Dean.

Gabby gambled on Ole Diz in the crucial series opener with the leaders and the great one, who had been virtually helpless on the mound since Aug. 20, threw and threw until his costly arm hung limply at his side. But he licked every man but the last who finally was struck out by Bill Lee.

Dizzy's remarkable seven hit victory filled the gap while Clay Bryant was having his second day of rest and today Clay goes up against Bob Klinger, another Pittsburgh star.

Since Sept. 4, Bryant and Lee have been winning games every two days and if their streak is

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(UP)—The North German Lloyd liner Hansa, scheduled to sail tonight with 350 passengers, sailed suddenly shortly after 9 a. m. today with no passengers.

BERLIN, Sept. 28.—(UP)—German steamship lines recalled ships on the high seas and cancelled sailings from German ports today as the threat of war over Czechoslovakia grew more imminent.

One of the ships recalled, it was understood, was the crack liner Europa, which sailed for New York yesterday from Bremenhaven. The Hamburg, due to sail tomorrow, will be held in port "for the time being," the Hamburg-America line said. Passengers were advised to remain at Hamburg.

German authorities at Vienna announced that passenger and freight traffic on the Danube, the great artery to the Black Sea, had been interrupted "for the time being" on the Vienna-Budapest reach, which lies between Austria and Hungary on one side and Czechoslovakia on the other.

WITNESS SAYS GERMANS HAVE U. S. SHIP PLAN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(UP)—John C. Metcalfe, agent for the house committee investigating un-American activities, charged today that Nazi adherents have obtained possession of secret construction plans for U. S. battleships.

Metcalfe, former Chicago newspaperman who became a committee agent, disclosed activities of German-American bond members, charging:

1. The bond already is advertising an Oct. 2 celebration of Adolf Hitler's acquisition of the Sudetenlands, although the Sudetenlands have not yet been acquired.

2. The bond members consider themselves the same type of minority as the Germans inhabiting Czechoslovakia's Sudeten lands.

3. Nazi agents have acquired secret battleship plans and even have been assigned to go on trial runs of the latest type battleships of the U. S. navy.

4. That the German-American bond can muster 5,000 storm troopers within its own ranks and plans to draft such men "for a sabotage machine and spy net" in event of a German-United States war.

FATHER OF FIVE FREED

PORTSMOUTH, Sept. 28.—(UP)—John H. Walker, 50, father of five children, stood acquitted today of manslaughter charges growing out of the fatal shooting of two men who tried to see his 23-year-old daughter against his wishes.

Walter Lee Stewart, 23, and Henry Wright, 23, were killed at the Walker home last Feb. 6. The jury studied the case for an hour and five minutes.

ARMY'S MARCH INTO SUDETEN LAND DELAYED

Fuehrer Invites Chamberlain, Mussolini and Daladier to Munich for Crucial Parley on Deadlocked Czechoslovakian Issue

F. D. R.'S ADDRESS STARTS CHAIN

Il Duce's Influence Used to Persuade German Chancellor to Change Plans

By Webb Miller
LONDON, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Fuehrer Adolf Hitler called a four-power conference on the Czech crisis today at almost the exact hour which he had set for marching his army into the Sudeten land. Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, informed the British house of commons that Hitler had set 2 p. m. today, (8 a. m. Circleville time), for the march but had agreed to postpone it for 24 hours pending a talk by himself, Chamberlain, Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy and Premier Edouard Daladier of France tomorrow at Munich.

Hitler's ultimatum that the Czechs must yield the Sudeten land to Germany by Saturday was not mentioned in the four-page invitation but it was believed in London that he would accept "a token withdrawal" of Czech troops from Sudeten land.

Parley Momentous

Chamberlain, Mussolini and Daladier will fly to Munich for what probably will be the most momentous conference since 1914. The leaders of the great powers will fly to the scene of the "beer cellar" which began Hitler's march to world power.

The conference will start early in the afternoon, an hour when German troops would have been well on the way toward invasion of Czechoslovakia but for Hitler's decision to negotiate further.

Czech officials were not invited to the conference but British and French will represent their interests.

The dramatic chain of events which averted immediate war began at the White House in Washington shortly after 10 p. m. Tuesday. It was an early morning hour in Europe when President Roosevelt's suggestion for a conference of the powers was cabled to Hitler, stirring the chancellor into action. The suggestion for a conference went to London, and from there spread to Paris and Rome. For the first time Benito Mussolini was directly involved in negotiations when Chamberlain urged him to use his influence to force Hitler to call a conference. He did so. Hitler decided to call the parley and acceptance by all was almost immediate.

Prepared to Risk All, Hitler Told Minister

LONDON, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Fuehrer Adolf Hitler declared at the first Berchtesgaden talk that he was prepared to risk a World War rather than wait for a settlement of his claims on Czechoslovakia, Prime Minister Chamberlain declared in the house of commons today.

As Chamberlain disclosed to an anxious house the course of the crisis and Britain's efforts to avoid war, it was disclosed that the prime minister had made a new suggestion to Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy for a four power conference to settle the dispute.

POPE TAKES AIR THURSDAY FOR PEACE APPEAL

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Pope Pius has decided to broadcast a plea for peace, at 9:30 tomorrow (3:30 p. m. Circleville time), it was announced today.

Vatican authorities said that the Pope had been most anxious regarding the international situation and decided this morning to broadcast an appeal throughout the world for peace.

Diplomats considered his decision of unusual significance in view of the fact that Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, who usually adds the Pope in preparing radio addresses, left Monday for his annual vacation.

The Pope will speak from his library at his summer estate at Castel Gandolfo on a wave length of 49.75 metres.

He will speak in Italian but the radio will carry translations.

for advice, to leave the country unless they had valid business there. The same advice had been given previously in Czechoslovakia, France and Britain.

It was estimated that 12,000 Americans and Canadians would leave various European ports for New York, Boston, Quebec and Montreal, before Monday.

The Queen Mary sailed from Southampton and the Europa from Bremerhaven, Germany, yesterday with 2,000 passengers each. American and Canadian tourists stood in long lines at offices of the principal North Atlantic shipping companies. The requests for passage were so numerous that the company employed extra staffs to handle them.

A trainload of Americans from Czechoslovakia arrived today at Zurich, Switzerland, bound for Paris.

Garbo to Sail

Greta Garbo, the movie star, booked passage at Gothenburg on the Swedish motorship Kungsholm, which sails for New York Tuesday.

Previously, the American consulate in Berlin had declined to advise those who asked whether they should leave the country. The embassy had been planning to form an organization to evacuate Americans in the event Germany went to war, but in contrast to the plight of other foreigners in Germany, it had been believed there was no hurry about Americans leaving.

as possible unless they had valid reasons for remaining.

Presumably it will be necessary for most of them to go by way of France or other countries, for the American liner Washington, due to go to Hamburg, will terminate her voyage at France.

Lloyd line officials told the United Press that their future sailings were cancelled. Asked whether the cancellation order might be revoked, they said they could only advise inquirers to return later today or tomorrow for further word.

Germans went nervously to work here after a night during which columns of troops, tanks, artillery, army ambulances and field kitchens rumbled almost endlessly through the streets.

Ministers See Adolf

Both the French and British ambassadors saw Hitler in separate conferences.

Andre Francois-Poncet, the French ambassador, talked to Hitler for 15 minutes.

Then Sir Neville Henderson, the British ambassador, saw him for 15 minutes in the presence of Field Marshal Herman Goering, air minister, and Joachim Von Ribbentrop, foreign minister.

Reports were circulated that at any time Adolf Hitler might set the machinery in motion for an early attack on Czechoslovakia.

In some quarters, it was suggested that the attack might even start before the expiration of Hitler's ultimatum for surrender by Saturday of the Sudeten minority area.

But it was the troops that brought final realization to Germans that they might be plunged into war.

From early evening, the army units moved through the streets. Field kitchens smoked, and cooks worked busily, as they rolled along sandwiched in with other motorized and mechanized units. Horses were carried in trucks.

Usually well informed quarters said that Hitler's own bodyguard regiment, the Liebandarte, had been ordered to abandon its smart black uniform for the field gray of the war time army.

Nearly all British newspaper correspondents had left Germany this morning.

The average German had been fearful for a long time of war over Czechoslovakia, but had been assured after the first conference between Hitler and Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain that it would be localized. Little was known of the real nature of the crisis.

For instance, today the official news agency distributed to German newspapers only a part of President Roosevelt's new appeal to Hitler. The President's suggestion that a pacification conference ought to be held at once in some neutral spot in Europe, was omitted. It was mentioned merely that the President proposed a conference peace and not mistakes of the past was the nub of the crisis, was omitted.

Betrayal Charged

The result of the version of the crisis which Germans knew, was to convince them that Great Britain had betrayed them.

Germans obtained most of their real information from foreign friends or through friends who knew foreigners—and with the unescapable picture of war preparation which they saw in the streets they now knew that war might be near.

Many Germans past military age sought means of getting to Holland or other foreign countries. Others awaited events.

Last night there was a circumstantial report that unless Hitler saw a prospect of a solution of the Czechoslovak problem by 8 a. m. (Circleville time) he would set the war machinery in motion.

This report was described as false today. Still, speculation persisted as to the first move Hitler would make—tightening up the opener, his seventh of the year against one defeat, was the 19th in 21 games for the streaking Cubs. It seemed they had all the breaks a hot club usually gets, but through it all the 42-238 fans jamming Wrigley field in true world series frenzy sensed that Dizzy Dean was the man of the hour.

For Diz, it must have been one of those victories he'll store back in his memory along with that wild World Series of 1934. He won a game yesterday that had all but been conceded to Pittsburgh. Many thought Diz was just thrown in there to allow Bryant and Lee to rest.

Todd Misses Strike

Ole Diz mixed his creeping curve with a fast ball that zipped into nowhere. The best the Pirates could do was seven hits and even with two on, two out in the ninth, Diz might have retired the side and had a shut out. Instead Lee came in to face Al Todd. A wild pitch scored the only Pirate run, but Todd struck out ending the game.

Rip Collins opened the scoring with a triple off Jim Tobin to start the third inning. Bill Jurgens then brought Rip home with a single to right. In the sixth, the Cubs got their other run on singles by Frank Demaree and Phil Cavaretta and a force play by Carl Reynolds. Cavaretta went in to play left field after Augie Galen re-injured his trick knee. Galen may be back for this series.

war production schedule, ordering storm troop officers to get their men ready for mobilization. Strangely, there was little talk of a general mobilization of the army. That had been discounted because Hitler already had most of the country's reservists in uniform. Until he re-instituted compulsory military service two years ago, Germany had an army of only 100,000 men and the first conscripts of the new army completed their two years' training only this month.

made this morning, was a direct response to President Roosevelt's message to Hitler last night, suggesting a conference at a neutral point in Europe.

Britain, France, Germany and Italy would be represented at the conference.

In telling commons of his talk with Hitler at Berchtesgaden, Chamberlain said: "Very soon I became aware that the situation was much more acute, and more urgent than I realized. In courteous but perfectly definite terms, Hitler said he had made up his mind that the Sudeten Germans must have the right of self-determination and returning to the Reich. He said he would assist them and categorically declared that rather than wait he would be prepared to risk a World War."

Threats Charged

Chamberlain said that Hitler had complained about British threats. The prime minister replied that he must distinguish between threats and warnings.

"I said Germany might have just cause for complaint if she were allowed to believe that in no circumstances would Britain go to war with her," Chamberlain said.

SOLONS OF OHIO MAY NOT DECIDE SCHOOL CRISIS

COLUMBUS, Sept. 28—(UP)—A representative of Governor Martin L. Davey has informed a high state official that there will be no special session of Ohio general assembly this year to consider public school financing.

The governor's aide was quoted by an unimpeachable source as saying that no special session would be called because it would be "politically inexpedient."

Gov. Davey had stated several months ago that a special legislative session to consider ways of reducing the state's $17,000,000 school debt would be called after the November election. Officials of the state department of education and the Ohio Education Association have been urging in recent weeks that such a session be called.

CZECH CHARGES FUEHRER AFTER OTHER REGIONS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28—(UP)—Vladimir Hruban, Czech minister to the United States, charged today that Adolf Hitler's demand for the Sudetenland is a "camouflage" for his real aim—a pathway to the wheat fields of the Russian Ukraine and the oil wells of Roumania.

Hurban returned only this week from a visit to his country. He said that most of Hitler's charges about conditions in the Sudeten areas were "absolutely false."

He appealed to the democratic nations to "stand firmly together," asserting that that was the only avenue to peace. He contended that there never was a "Sudeten problem" until the Anschluss of Germany and Austria.

SERVICES FOR INFANT

Services were held at the grave in Forest cemetery at 4 p. m. Wednesday for a stillborn son of the Rev. and Mrs. Robert T. Kelsey at 1 a. m. Wednesday in Berger hospital. The Rev. T. C. Harper officiated. Burial was in charge of the Albaugh Co.

Aside from the budget, the new styles also offer a little problem in balancing the bustle.

PUMPKIN SHOW TO TRY C. OF C. EXHIBIT PLANS

Displays May Be Put In Center Of Street
North Of Watt

SECRETARY ROTH AIDS

Work Starts On Mason's
Field, Scene Of Big Horse Show

In compliance with the suggestion of a committee from the Chamber of Commerce and Retail Merchants association, directors of the Pickaway County Agricultural society voted Tuesday night to test the plan of placing exhibits in one section of the Pumpkin Show in the center of the street.

The plan will probably be tested in that part of Court street north of Watt street. Space in the downtown business district has all been sold and locations cannot be changed.

R. L. Brehmer spoke before the society in the interest of the question. "I realize that plans for the show have advanced to the point that it would be impossible to make changes now," Mr. Brehmer said. "It is worth a test in some section."

He believed merchants would take more interest in decorating and arranging displays for the show if their store fronts were not hidden by concessions. Mr. Brehmer cited Circleville's Northwest Territory celebration last May as an example of what merchants can do in the way of decorations if they are interested.

Secretary to Assist

Directors voted to have George Roth, secretary, to cooperate with the two organizations of businessmen in working out a test on the plan.

Mr. Brehmer offered a suggestion also the location of the pumpkin exhibit be changed this year. He believed it should be more in the center of the show. The exhibit has been placed on N. Court street in recent years. No decision was made on this suggestion.

Robert Colville reported work had been started on the preparation of Mason's field for the saddle horse show. Weeds will be cleared from a part of the field and it will be leveled. A county grader will be used for the work. Mr. Colville said there would be considerable space on the field for parking. He said the Rotary club is conducting the campaign for show contributions and hopes to complete the work next week. Mr. Colville is preparing 300 letters to be sent out for contributions.

Street decorations were discussed. Several decorating firms desire to do the work. Mayor W. B. Cady appointed a committee consisting of Messrs. Colville, Roth and T. D. Krinn to study the propositions and take action on the one they believed the best.

Chairman Needed

Director John Walters reported all arrangements for his department were completed with the exception of a chairman for the vegetable section. He announced that Fred B. Brunner, who has served as chairman, has resigned. Circleville high school band will go to Jackson on Oct. 7 to play for the Apple festival and Northwest Territory celebration. In return for the favor the Jackson high school band will visit the Pumpkin Show.

Parking space for the cars of members of the Elks band of Columbus, to attend the Pumpkin Show on Wednesday, Oct. 19, was discussed but no arrangements were definitely worked out. It was believed the cars would be parked parallel on N. Court street, North of Watt, and they would not interfere with show plans.

"They don't want to carry their instruments so far," Mr. Colville said. "They will carry them in the parade, won't they," Mayor Cady asked.

Directors adjourned subject to call.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU BY BOB BURNS

I guess I've got too much of an inferiority complex to ever be a politician. Every time I hear about some newspaper or magazine entering my name in a popularity contest with some of these actors, I feel like runnin' away and hidin' until it's all over.

I had an uncle that thought he was the most popular man in Crawford county until he ran for sheriff. After he lost the election, he was arrested for carryin' a gun and he said, "A man that ain't got no more friends in this county than I have oughta carry a gun."

Czechs And Polish Near Agreement On Minority

WARSAW, Poland, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Poland was driving a hurried bargain with Czechoslovakia today in their prolonged territorial dispute. It appeared that a solution might be reached that would eliminate Poland as a potential ally of Germany in any war over Czechoslovak minorities.

A messenger flew to Prague bearing a letter from President Ignacy Moscicki replying to Czechoslovakia's offer to cede to Poland a 20-mile strip of Silesia inhabited by 82,000 Czechoslovak-Poles. Dr. Casimir Pajda, Polish minister, handed the note to President Eduard Benes at Prague this morning. Its contents were secret.

JURORS DECIDE GAINES GUILTY IN ATTACK CASE

After deliberating about a half hour a Common Pleas court jury returned a verdict of guilty as charged, Tuesday afternoon, against William Gaines, 26, Columbus, indicted on a statutory charge, Charles Mack, N. Court street, was foreman of the jury.

Gaines did not take the stand in his own defense and no witnesses were called for him. The defense was made on the contention the state had not proven its case according to law.

Gaines was convicted of making improper advances toward a Jackson township girl whom he offered a ride to Circleville from Columbus. He escaped from deputy sheriffs along the Mackey Ford road and was later captured near Columbus.

Jurors will return Thursday to hear the action of T. M. Barnes, S. Court street, against W. E. Caskey and others, a suit for $469.93 on an account.

SOLON OPPOSED TO U. S. IN WAR UNLESS FORCED

COSHOCTON, Sept. 28.—(UP)—A promise that he never again would vote for a declaration of war by the United States except in case of invasion of the country was left here today by Congressman William A. Ashbrook, Johnstown, Democratic representative for the 17th Ohio district.

Discussing events in Europe Ashbrook said:

"I am less hopeful of the outcome now than ever before, but I am one member of congress who intends to profit by the mistake of 1917. Against my personal convictions, I voted for the declaration of war at that time, but that I will never do again unless the United States is actually invaded."

rites Held Tuesday For Victim Of MONOXIDE GAS

Funeral services for James Edgington, 63, Circleville well driller, were held at 5 p. m. Tuesday at the grave in Forest cemetery, the Rev. George Troutman officiating. Burial was by M. S. Rinehart.

Mr. Edgington's body was found in a car Tuesday on Devil's Backbone, Washington township, by three youths who were squirrel hunting. A rubber hose was connected from the exhaust pipe into the auto. A verdict of suicide was returned by Coroner C. E. Bowers. Mr. Edgington had been missing since Aug. 8.

C. OF C. DISCUSSES PLAN FOR CITY ADVANCEMENT

Carl Hunter, W. Main street merchant, led a discussion at the Chamber of Commerce meeting Tuesday noon on promotional activities for Circleville during the next year.

As a result of the discussion, all merchants were asked to submit to the organization recommendations for the advancement of the city. From these reports a tentative program will be outlined for consideration by the organization at a later date.

Ted Lewis Joins Rudy Vallee's Hour As Guest

Ted Lewis, Circleville's famous singing band leader; Doc Rockwell, comedian; and Max Schuster, publisher, are the top attractions Thursday on the Rudy Vallee Hour.

The famous catch phrase, "Is everybody happy?" is practically Ted Lewis' trade mark. The comedian orchestra leader with the famous battered silk topper will sing an old song or two and tell a couple of stories he's famous for on the hour that is broadcast over the NBC red network at 8 p. m.

Luring Doc Rockwell from his Maine retreat is a feat in itself but the rocking chair comedian consented when Rudy Vallee, a Maine man himself, put on the pressure. The Doc usually sends Vallee a letter to let him know he's devised a new script.

Max Schuster, who will be interviewed by Rudy, was a boy-wanderer, ghost writer, and a salesman before he wound up a success in the publishing business. His erstwhile partner, Richard Simon, met Schuster while selling him a player piano. Right then and there they joined hands in the book business to make an immediate success of it.

MADELINE CARROLL

A poignant drama of self-sacrifice is the Radio Theatre's play, "Another Dawn," starring Madeline Carroll, Franchot Tone, and George Brent on Monday, October 3. Cecil B. DeMille is the producer of the hour that is broadcast over the Columbia network at 9 p. m.

Ironical is the fact that Madeline Carroll, who has been trying to lose every trace of her British accent in Hollywood, will be called on to play the part of the impulsive young Englishwoman, Julia Ashton.

SCHOLARSHIPS OFFERED

Betty Lou, co-star with Tommy Riggs recently received offers of scholarships to exclusive girls' schools.

Tommy Riggs is rather at a loss what to do about them. The people who made these kind offers feel that Betty should have a good education. Tommy hates to disillusion them by telling them she exists only in his mind and voice. He's decided, therefore, to tell them Betty is going to be educated by mental telepathy.

Tommy Riggs and Betty Lou, with Larry Clinton's orchestra and Zazu Pitts as the guest star, make their debut over an NBC-Red network, Saturday, October 1, at 8 p. m.

AT THE CLIFTONA

COLIN TAPLEY, as an adventure-loving English explorer, and Jayne Regan, as the girl he leaves at home when he plunges into the trackless jungles of Malaya, play the romantic leads in "Boo-Boo," Paramount's jungle drama, which is showing Thursday at the Cliftona theatre. It was produced and directed by Clyde E. Elliott, who filmed "Bring 'Em Back Alive."

AT THE GRAND

It's live! Amour in naughty New Orleans!
It's live! Don Ameche! vive Simone Simon! and vive Robert Young!

For that matter it's live "Josette" in Circleville Wednesday, Thursday. The Grand Theatre runs this oo-la-la-laughing love escapade by 20th Century-Fox. This spicy, tantalizing story is gayer than a Mardi Gras, with these three delightful stars. Don is more romantic than you've known him on screen or radio. Simone is the tantalizing little French coquette. She's got zis! And she's got zat! And Bob is the ardent swain who won't take no for an answer—not even in French!

It all starts gaily on its way when Don and Bob decide that their Papa is too ardently cherishing the femme—Josette. The fact that Simone is innocent of all guile as regards Papa—and that there is another woman in the case—only adds to the merry madness. For Don and Bob pack Papa off on a trip and decide to take Josette into their own hands . . . or arms, as it later develops.

The development can't be divulged here, but let it be said that "Josette," merry with its Gordon and Revel songs, has the kick of a sizzling cocktail!

Three new song hits by Hollywood's ace tunesmiths are featured in the musical background of the film. These, which already are crowding the kilocycles, are "May I Drop A Petal In Your Glass Of Wine?" "In Any Language" and "Where In The World."

Wine? "In Any Language" and "Where In The World."

Bert Lahr and Joan Davis, sensational new comedy team first seen in "Love And Hisses," head the featured cast of "Josette."

The film is Joan Davis' first since she was voted No. 1 comedienne in a New York daily's nation-wide fan poll.

Paul Hurst, William Collier, Sr. and Taia Birell are included in the cast. Darryl F. Zanuck, in charge of production, selected Allen Dwan to direct, with Gene Markey associate producer. The screen play by James Edward Grant was based upon a play by Paul Frank and George Fraser, from a story by Ladislav Vahdal.

AT THE CIRCLE

William Powell has survived all these years without a stooge, now he inherits one. He who parries William Powell's wise-crackery with a "slow burn" is Edgar Kennedy, selected to portray Spike, Italian restaurateur and Powell's crony in "Double Wedding," now showing at the Circle Theatre.

The new picture, co-starring the popular "Mr. and Mrs. Thin Man," is described as a laugh-packed farce with Powell as an itinerant artist and Miss Loy as a smart New York gown shop proprietor fighting over who's to marry whom.

"FLIGHT TO THE DOLLAR"
THE flood of foreign money pouring into the United States at present is "very, very large, the biggest it has ever been," says Secretary Morgenthau.
Obviously this money has not been coming here lately because business investment is unusually inviting and profitable. It is coming because of a European scare which makes its owners fear they will lose it if they keep it there. All they ask is a safe place for storage till the big war scare, or war itself, is over.
By such action they register their belief that war is not coming to America. They are probably right as far as most of us can see now. Admitting the complications and perils, it seems unlikely that we could be dragged in. Memories of the last big war and its disillusionments are still too fresh. And if Europe or the whole double continent of Eurasia proceeds to destroy its civilization, some strong power should remain free to pick up the pieces and do what it can to put them together again.

THE SPEED FIENDS
THE mania for speed is like a drug addiction, never satisfied. Capt. E. T. Eyston on the Utah salt flats raised his last year's automobile record from 311.42 miles to 345.40, and felt contented about it. Then John Cobb made a new mark of 350.2 miles, which of course had to be beaten. So Capt. Eyston went at it again, and pushed the mark up to 357.5 miles. After that, Cobb was naturally impelled by a great yearning to surpass his rival's achievements, even if only by one-tenth of a mile.

So it goes. Those competitors at their recent speeds are said to whiz over the course at more than two-thirds of the initial velocity of a .45 caliber revolver bullet. As motor improvements proceed, we may soon have men traveling on land surfaces with the actual speed of such a bullet. A racing car itself might be regarded as a powerful projectile.
It's a great life—till you hit something. Eyes and brain, flesh and blood, were not made for such velocities, not for the strain and certainly not for the impact.

What Hitler is interested in, of course, is justice to the Sudetens. It is a mere coincidence that nearly all Czechoslovakia's material resources are in the Sudeten area.

America begins to look awful good again to most of the 100,000 Americans now living abroad.

World At A Glance

Secretary Wallace's Agriculture department reports indicate that unfavorable weather toward the summer's end had cut down this year's American farm production a trifle below earlier advance estimates. The odd feature of the situation is that practically all export commentators on these reports express themselves in a tone of considerable satisfaction. They are not unqualifiedly satisfied, because the weather was not as bad as it might have been. Consequently our crop failures have been inadequate. Nevertheless they have been somewhat beneficial. When I speak of this as an old way of looking at the matter, I mean to say that it would have been so considered years ago, when I lived in the wheat, corn and hog belt. A poor growing season in that era rated as a public calamity. To be sure, farmers complained that prices were low when they had bumper yields, whereas they didn't have anything to sell when figures were high, due to drought, hail or grasshoppers. Still, I never heard it argued that big crops were a curse or that semi-famine was a blessing.

A NOVEL PLAN
The other day an acquaintance of mine suggested to me a novel plan for agriculture's benefit. I mustn't identify him too closely.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round
BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN.
BRITISH ENCOURAGED
WASHINGTON—As far as the United States is concerned, the most important development in Europe is the discussion of whether the British can rely on our fleet in the Pacific in war-time.
This question has been discussed in some detail during recent talks between Ambassador Joe Kennedy and Prime Minister Chamberlain.
The British have made clear that Europe is merely their own backyard as an economic interest, that the British have no really important investments in Europe, while those in the Orient are vital.
Therefore, if the British are to uphold the hand of peace in Europe and risk war with Hitler, they must be given some protection from American vessels in that all-important British area, the Far East.
What further worries the Admiralty is that with most of its fleet in the North Sea and the Mediterranean, the Japanese could completely clean out British interests in China. The Japanese could withdraw their forces from the interior of China, consolidate their lines near the big seaports, which are fairly easy to defend against the Chinese, and then be free to clean up on the USA.
The British figure that the first thing the Japanese would do is to take Hong-kong, chief center of British commerce in the Far East, then move down and pick up the Dutch East Indies, then take Singapore, and go on to the eastern tip of India.
The State Department's reply to this British idea of US-British cooperation in the Far East was somewhat evasive, yet it was definite enough to give the British some reason for encouragement.
The general position taken by the United States was that we are not any more anxious to see the Japanese annex the entire Far East than the British are, but that we are tied down by the fact that we cannot make advance commitments of this kind or form alliances. However, the British were reminded that public opinion works very rapidly in this country, and that the American people may become much exercised over Japanese invasion of the entire Far East.
Thus the British got the idea that this country was anxious to go as far as possible in using American ships to keep the Far East out from under the heel of the Japanese.

DEWEY AND PECORA
Two behind-the-scenes facts about Tom Dewey's trial of Jimmy Hines, New York Tammany leader, are well worth noting.
One is that when Judge Ferdinand Pecora declared a mistrial, he threw up his own personal ambition to be a United States Senator.
Second is that Dewey is now proving what the New York legal fraternity already knew, that he is not a real lawyer. He is slipshod, careless in presenting his law, and adopts a snooty domineering attitude toward the bench. In his earlier racketeering trials the federal judges had a lot of sympathy with the young District Attorney and helped him along.
In the first place, he was sarcastic; he didn't mean what he said. Secondly, he was insulting to the New Deal's so-called "philosophy of scarcity." To quote him inevitably would involve him in trouble with his superiors. Anyway, he's a bug specialist—an entomologist in the agriculture department.
This chap's proposition is that we ought to encourage pestiferous insects—to make the most of the ones we have already, and to import new kinds, even as the Japanese beetle is a comparatively recent immigrant.
It's a fantastic notion, certainly. All the same, about half a decade past, the idea as boosted in Dixie that a monument ought to be erected somewhere in the southland to the boll weevil, as a restraint upon cotton overproduction.
Need I remark that that was a josh also?
Still, as my entomological friend observes, bugs are a lot more effective than any amount of un-planting and plowings-under, and it's hard to slaughter little pigs as fast as hog cholera kills them automatically.
Moreover, bugs and germs are impartial.
This isn't true of un-planting and plowings-under.
A land-owner can un-plant his own lawn or plow it under and be indemnified for doing so. A tenant farmer, however, has no land of his own, not to plant on or to plow under. He can't very well rent land not to plant on, or to plant on and then plow under.

It sounds mixey, but it's equally sound economically.
HAD SHOT AT IT
Besides, I think a lot of our farmers are slightly cuckoo. I'm not much of a farmer but I ran a farm once—in South America.
I had a cow, which gave all the milk I needed. I had pigs, and ate one occasionally. I had chickens which laid eggs for me, and, be-headed now and then, were good eating. I raised my own vegetables. In short, I set my own table. If necessary I burned corn for fuel. I wore no clothes to speak of.
I didn't need much cash money except for my primitive wants—like tobacco and alcohol. If I'd been enterprising probably I could have supplied those too.
But a North American farmer plants nothing but wheat or corn or cotton or tobacco.
He's dependent on condensed milk, canned fruit and vegetables, meat from a butcher shop and miscellany from a grocery. He can't eat raw wheat or cotton.
He isn't a farmer. He's a manufacturer of basic stuff.
It isn't an agricultural problem.

When I speak of this as an old way of looking at the matter, I mean to say that it would have been so considered years ago, when I lived in the wheat, corn and hog belt. A poor growing season in that era rated as a public calamity. To be sure, farmers complained that prices were low when they had bumper yields, whereas they didn't have anything to sell when figures were high, due to drought, hail or grasshoppers. Still, I never heard it argued that big crops were a curse or that semi-famine was a blessing.

"Dangers" of Constipation Declared Mental
By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
IN DISCUSSING the digestive system this week I have emphasized the functions that are usually disregarded.
The average person thinks of the digestive system as a cold, logical machine which attacks food and reduces it to a state which the body can utilize. He forgets that the digestive system also has to dispose of its products—he forgets the function of absorption.
He forgets it, that is, unless he happens to be constipated, and then he thinks of nothing else. The digestive canal, as we emphasized in the first of the articles this week, has the threefold function of chemical digestion, movement and absorption. In the large bowel only movement and absorption remain—there is no further chemical digestion. And the unfortunate person who is constipated does concentrate on absorption and movement—or rather lack of movement. He visualizes his insides as an enormous reservoir. That is all he can think of, and that Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column. is really almost the entire basis of constipation—its troubles are almost entirely mental. If the constipated individual could only stop thinking of the absorption and the lack of movement that is going on inside him he would be well.
Do I exaggerate? Well, to confirm what I say I turn to the best book ever written on the subject of medical treatment, that of my friend Dr. Harry Beckman of Milwaukee. He calls his chapter on constipation "Colon Consciousness," and he goes on to say that constipation is "a disturbance of the normal reflex condition, characterized by changes in colonic tone, irritability and secretory activity aggravated by treatment, and expressed as awareness of the colon and its activities."

CONTRACT BRIDGE
A BID AS A SAFEGUARD
IT IS UNLIKELY that either defender will attack the suit you bid, if you wind up in a no trump game contract, even if one of them has it badly bunched against you. Their tendency in this direction constitutes one safeguard against the danger of weakness in that suit. Base your playing plans, then, largely on their firing other suits at you.

(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)
After two passes, South began the bidding on this deal with 1-Heart, North called 2-Diamonds, South 2-No Trump and North 3-No Trump.
When the spade 5 was led, South could see eight tricks in sight and the question in his mind was whether to attempt to find the ninth in the heart or diamond suit.
He correctly selected the diamond suit and as a result made his contract.

HELEN WELSHIMER
CHAPTER 28
THE WORLD ended for Judy as Ronald followed Abbey into the den. She breathed, she walked, she smiled, she wasn't dead. She might even be able to cry—bushels of tears that would make her eyes red and her nose sore...
That conference in the den meant only one thing to Judy. Mr. Boland was being informed of Abbey's change of heart.
"Judy! We came mainly to see you!" It was Craig who greeted her in the great drawing room a few seconds later.
Craig! She had thought her heart was cruelly hurt because of him such a brief time ago. It hadn't been like this, though. Yet she had had far more reason to be wounded then. This time she had practically none. Was she always to go on, her heart being kicked like a football, until it gave up and rolled off the field?
Mary was with Craig. She wore a long tight black skirt and a jeweled jacket. Her hair, parted in the middle and coiled low on her neck, made her resemble a Madonna.
Mary was lucky. She loved a man and he loved her.
Judy heard a voice greeting guests and knew that it must belong to her. She smiled. It was a mechanical voice, like a toy, that you would wind up and forget until it ran down.
Marjorie came in a heavy white crepe dress that was lavishly dotted with old gold coins and gold slippers and cape.
She closed her eyes, for just a moment, as she walked through the door. Soon now she would see Count Philippe. Any moment she would be confronted with visible evidence that there had been a month by a blue sea, when a silver wind blew softly, and gondolas wove their mystic way through the water lanes of Venice. She would know for all time she had not dreamed it.
That moment at the boat had been so brief. Count Philippe had seemed different. But now—now he would be his gay, charming, tender self... the self he had been when he told her he loved her, before she knew that he was on a heart-breaking crusade.
Judy saw Marjorie and came to meet her, and Marjorie adjusted the twin mask of Judy's smile.
Dinner... place cards painted by a distinguished artist, torn to bits by nervous fingers, or seared with cigarette flame by a careless waiter. Course after course of priceless food. Small Santa Claus frolicking on the ices that concluded the meal.
Marjorie had given one swift glance at the count and looked away, trying to disguise the emotions on her face.
"Ah, Marjorie, it is good to find you again," he was saying, but she did not stay to listen. Her head was swimming dizzily.
Judy observed Marjorie's quick withdrawal, and thought about it a time or two during the dinner. But there was so much to do... Ronald, Ronald, why did you come? Why did you make me dream again?
The dinner ended. The other guests arrived. The swing band, that would send its tuneless melodies as high as the cloudland where the angels once sang, came too.
The party moved to the swimming pool and the game room beyond. Silver trees stood everywhere, a silver Neon moon shone through the frosty boughs that were a canopy for the ceiling. Stars twinkled, miniature sleds, who wished would glide on the green glass surface to the ring of their skates, or, if they didn't skate, use the ballroom floor upstairs, the game room next door.
The swimming pool had been frozen. Here presently the most famous skater of the age would perform, and then all the guests who wished would glide on the green glass surface to the ring of their skates, or, if they didn't skate, use the ballroom floor upstairs, the game room next door.

Today's Fashion

THE COIFFURE is a definite part of the sartorial scheme this autumn, since it has influenced millinery to a remarkable degree, as witness the new hats and the upswep coiffure. In Paris, the hair style for evening is definitely brushed-up, as these sketches, made in Paris, show. Old and young alike have adopted it. Some of the new coiffures are amusing and flattering. At top, a white paillette bird is placed right at the center of the head toward the front. Next we show two real roses placed in either side of the coils of a pompadour. STARS SAY—

For Wednesday, September 28

A DAY of mixed influence again is read from the rule of important planets. While there may be advancement or recognition in employment, with superiors and those in authority friendly disposed, all so there is an omen of frustration, with delays or postponements which may have a depressing effect. However, the mind may be able to concentrate on balking situations, and the judgement may be depended upon, thus swinging delays or seeming defeats into favorable channels.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be ready to turn some seeming obstacles into fortunate results by wise judgement, patience and persistence, taking advantage of difficulties which followed the ceremony.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Riegel will live in Cedar Hill.

FELLER PITCHES 17TH WIN, 6-1, OVER WHITE SOX

CLEVELAND, Sept. 28—(UP)—Young Mr. Robert Feller, erstwhile youthful pitching sensation of the Cleveland Indians, could step up and take a bow today for a courageous comeback.

The young speedball artist hung up his 17th victory of the year Tuesday and boosted his strikeout record to 222 for the season as he pitched the Tribe to a 6 to 1 victory over Chicago. Bob leads both major leagues in strikeouts this year.

Feller demonstrated real courage and persistence for a young man yet to reach his 20th birthday when he came back during the past two months after fair-weather fans and critics gave up on him when his effectiveness collapsed in early Summer.

Feller has been the most consistent winner on the Indian mound since Aug. 15, Jeff Heath, another young player playing a prominent role in Indian fortunes these days, rifled three hits in Tuesday's triumph including a double and his 19th home run of the season.

Earl Whitehill of the Indians and Thornton Lee of the White Sox were to oppose each other on the mound today.

BREUER TWIRLS, JUDNICH CLUBS FOR KASEY NINE

BY UNITED PRESS

Kansas City remained in the American Association playoff finals today but the St. Paul Saints maintained an advantage of a game in the series which will determine the league championship.

Kansas City won last night, 7 to 6, with Walter Judnich, an outfielder, getting the hits which decided the issue. Judnich hit two home runs and two singles to drive in five of the runs made by the Blues. The victory was the second in the series for Kansas City.

Marvin Breuer, who pitched the Kansas City triumph, came back to win last night's game. He was unsteady in the late innings and had to have relief from Frank Makosky in the ninth. The Saints scored five of their six runs in the last three innings, almost tying the score in their last time at bat.

The Saints used four pitchers in an effort to stop Judnich and his team mates. Harry Davis, Kansas City first baseman, got three timely hits.

The two teams returned to St. Paul for the sixth contest tonight.

STENGEL NAME AGAIN

BOSTON, Sept. 28—(UP)—Charles D. (Casey) Stengel will continue to manage the Boston Bees National league baseball team next year. President J. A. Robert Quinn said he was tremendously satisfied with the way Stengel handled the team this year. Stengel, former manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, succeeded Bill McKechie who went to Cincinnati.

LOMBARDI, MIZE WAGING BATTLE FOR BAT CROWN

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 28—(UP)—Catcher Ernie (Schnozzle) Lombardi of Cincinnati and First Baseman Johnny Mize of St. Louis today waged an individual battle for the National league batting championship.

The first round Tuesday was remarkable because neither big Ernie nor slugging Johnny was able to smack a safety as the Reds defeated the Cards, 3 to 1. Johnny had the best of the argument because he went to bat only three times against four for Lombardi but Schnoz held the lead by a margin of .0003.

His average was .3362 as against .3359 for Mize. The two renewed their feud today as the Redlegs and Cardinals played the second game of their final series.

Two Reserve Backfield Aspirants Start Friday

The question of a starting backfield for the Granville booster game, Friday evening, has High School Coaches Roy Black and Tom Armstrong going round and round. Johnny Noggle is definitely out of competition; Marvin Jenkins' physical condition is not good, and neither is Clark Martin's.

Paul Walters is expected to be ready and so is Frank Woodward, but replacements are needed for two positions. From all indications Harold Smith will get the call at one spot with Floyd Birchwell, Joe Staley and Ted Moon scrambling for the other place. The coaches have used several combinations back of the line but none has yet shown all that is expected.

Line to Be Same

The line starting the Granville game will be the same as that which did such yeoman work a week ago. All the forward wall members came through without serious injury. This line includes Heffner and Jackson, ends; Rooney and Hill, tackles; Hays and Arledge, guards and Nelson center. Roy Birchwell is battling for one of the guard spots.

Faculty Athletic Manager Virgil Cress announced Wednesday that officials for the Granville game will be Harley Pearce, Rodney Ross and Al Kauber.

Granville is coming to Circleville loaded for bear after suffering a defeat last Friday at the hands of New Concord, the first team has received since early in 1938. Coach Bob McConnell has his offensive centered around Quarterback Tavener, who was a star last year.

Booster tickets are being sold for the contest for 75 cents. All proceeds of the Granville game go toward payment for the lighting system that was erected early last year by an improvement association comprised of interested Circleville men. Tickets are being sold by members of the Girl Reserve. The regular price for the game is 50 cents for adults, the 75 cent ticket being offered to those willing to help pay for the lighting system.

Despite the Tigers' two losses few Circleville fans have "given up" on the Red and Black team. Many see improvement in grid tactics at the Tiger school and all intend to be on hand to see the Granville game, which is expected to be one of the outstanding on the home field this year.

CUBS AND HANK GREENBERG WIN BASEBALL'S EYE

Chicagoans May Take Top Spot Today; Detroiters Needs Three Homers

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Almost all the baseball world today gave a whoop and a holler and lined up solidly behind heroic Hank Greenberg and the gallant Chicago Cubs in their quest of laurels everyone believed beyond their reach.

With 58 homers Greenberg needs only three in five games to smash Babe Ruth's record of 60 made in 1927. Even the Bambino himself is pulling for Greenberg. "I wish him luck," was the Babe's comment when told of Greenberg's two homers yesterday.

With eight straight victories, the Cubs were within a half a game of overhauling the league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates in the sizzling National league race. Almost everywhere except in Pittsburgh baseball fans are rooting for Gabby Hartnett, the popular Irish plod, to get his Cubs home in front and climax one of the greatest September drives in history. On Sept. 1 the Cubs were in fourth place, seven games from the top.

Underdog Favored

Even the New York Yankees, American league champions, are pulling for the Cubs. This possibly may be because of the larger gate which would result with the Cubs in the series. Among baseball fans, however, there is sentiment for the underdog and for a team that can fight its way up a tough trail with only two pitchers, Big Bill Lee and Clay Bryant, who have shouldered the mound burden between them the last month.

Dizzy Dean's grand performance which turned back the Pirates yesterday, 2-1, also contributed in rousing fandom to cheer for the Cubs. Dean held the Pirates to seven hits in 8½ innings. Hartnett took him out with two out in the ninth because he was tired. Lee, who pitched and beat the Cardinals Monday, uncorked a wild pitch to let in the only run. Then he fanned Al Todd to end the game. The victory had its price as the Cubs lost Outfielder Augie Galan, who twisted his knee in sliding.

With five games left to play, the Cubs still must win one more than the Pirates in their remaining six, to grab the pennant. If both clubs win the same number of games Pittsburgh will finish in front. For instance if each team wins three games the standing would be:

Pittsburgh . . . 88 62 .587
Chicago . . . 89 63 .586

By hitting two homers yesterday Greenberg moved one game ahead of Ruth's record-breaking pace. Hank hit 57 and 58 in his 148th game. Ruth didn't get his 58th until game No. 149. But he also hit No. 59 in his 149th game. Thus the Detroit bomber will have to get another one today to stay even.

Greenberg has two more games at Detroit, where he has collected 39 of his clouts. Both are with the Browns. His final three games are against the Indians at Cleveland, where has made only three homers in eight games.

By splitting a doubleheader with Brooklyn the Giants were eliminated of all mathematical chance of finishing higher than third. The Giants beat Freddy Fitzsimmons, 5-3, in the opener, but John Gaddy, a rookie from Elmira, and Luke Hamlin combined to give the Dodgers' the nightcap, 5-1, in six innings.

In the other National league games the Boston Bees beat the Phillies twice, 2-1 and 4-1, and Cincinnati knocked out Paul Dean to trim the Cardinals, 3-1.

THROUGH EXPECTED TO ATTEND OHIO HISTORY DAY EXERCISES

ANNUAL LOGAN ELM PROGRAM TO BE SUNDAY

Three Speakers Appear During Festivities; Pageant Arranged

PICNIC LUNCH PLANNED

Music Of Scotch And Irish Settlers To Be Sung

Approximately 10,000 persons are expected to attend the 26th annual celebration of Ohio History Day at Logan Elm Park, Sunday.

Completed plans for the occasion, which have been arranged by Mrs. Irene S. McKinley of Columbus, chairman of the program committee, assisted by Dr. Howard Jones of Circleville and David E. Crouse of Kingston, include special music in tribute to the early Scotch and Irish settlers of the Scioto Valley as well as to the Indians.

Mrs. McKinley, who will wear an Indian costume, and Harry A. Graham, of Columbus, wearing Scotch kilts will sing "The Indian Dawn" and "Life's Dream is O'er" as duets. Mr. Graham will also sing "Roamin' in the Gloamin'" and will lead the audience in "America". Mrs. Ethel Greiser Wright, director of the Hilltop School of Music, Columbus, will be the accompanist.

The program, primarily, will be based on the signing of the peace treaty with the white man by Chief Logan. The terms of the treaty, according to tradition, were agreed on near Logan Elm.

Three on Program

E. S. Wenis, veteran Chillicothe newspaperman, will speak on "The Indians of the Scioto Valley". Judge Henry T. Bannon, Portsmouth, will use for his subject, "The Coming of the White Man to the Scioto Valley". He is an attorney, historian and author. H. D. Harris, Cincinnati, a G-man recommended by G. Edgar Hoover who will be unable to be present, will talk on "Enforcement of White Man's Law". Mr. Harris, who holds two degrees in law from George Washington university, Washington D. C., has been with the Federal Bureau of Investigation for over eight years. As special agent in charge of the Cincinnati field division of the bureau, Mr. Harris has supervision over investigations in the southern district of Ohio under the direction of Mr. Hoover.

John F. Carlisle, Columbus, will be master of ceremonies.

Pageant Planned

A pageant depicting the episodes leading to and the rendition of Logan's Speech will be presented in costume by the pupils of Kingston high school. This will be directed by David E. Crouse of that community, author of the recently published book, "The Ohio Gateway". Mr. Crouse is descended from a pioneer family of Pickaway county and has much first hand historical information from his parents.

Mrs. McKinley will conclude the program with an Indian prayer, "The Blanket Rosary."

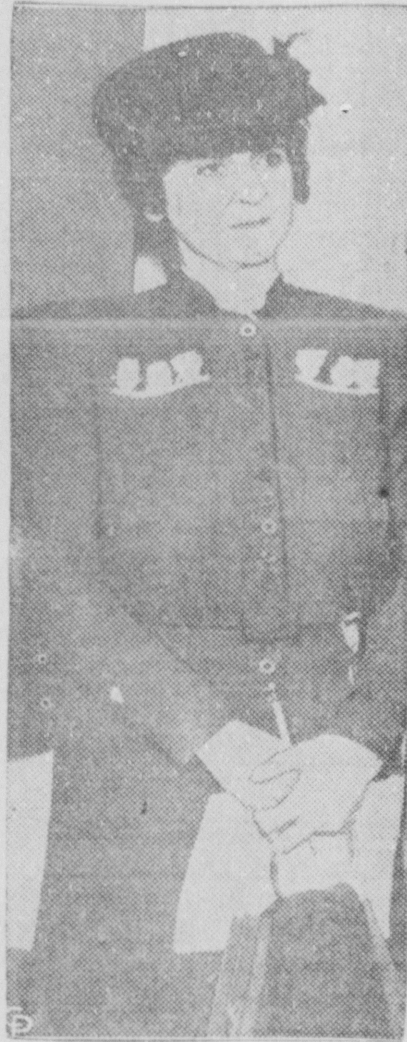

The program will begin at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. In event of rain, the celebration ceremonies will be held in Memorial Hall, E. Main street, Circleville.

The Ohio History association has planned a picnic luncheon at the park for the guests who are taking part in the program. This will be held in the shelter house preceding the program of the afternoon.

Mrs. Howard Jones of Circleville, president of the Ohio History association, will have a prominent part in the ceremonies of the day. It is largely through her interest and efforts that the celebrations have continued through the years.

F. D. R. Appeals to Hitler To Continue Negotiations

Auxiliary Chief

MRS. JAMES MORRIS OF BISMARCK, N. D., is the new national head of the women's auxiliary of the American Legion, elected in Los Angeles.

BOY SCOUTS TO HEAR RADCLIFF AT HONOR COURT

William D. Radcliff, mayor of Williamsport, will speak to Boy Scouts, Wednesday evening, at their Court of Honor ceremonial to start at 7:30 o'clock in the Common Pleas courtroom. E. C. Ebert, chairman of the committee on Scout advancement, is in charge of the program.

The Court of Honor, which is open to the public, recognizes the achievements of Circleville and Pickaway district Boy Scouts. Awards will be presented to the members of the various troops of the county by local Scouts.

Mr. Radcliff, a former Scout, last Spring headed the successful annual sustaining membership appeal for the Scout movement here. Scout Ty Davis, Troop 158, will outline plans for the Scout exhibit in the Pumpkin Show.

The district flag, now in possession of Troop 5, Kingston, will be awarded the troop which receives the greatest proportion of advancements at the court.

HUNTERS CITED IN SECOND CHECK FOR VIOLATORS

A second check of squirrel hunters was held in central Ohio Tuesday at Lancaster.

Clarence Francis, Pickaway county conservation officer who participated in the Fairfield county campaign held on Route 33 near Lancaster, said there were 67 cases in which fines of $25 and costs assessed in each case. He said that most of the hunters arrested were from Columbus. The fines were assessed by John A. Mayer, justice of peace.

The agents stopped more than 500 cars, many bearing hunters returning from Hocking county hills.

Seventeen hunters, charged with 46 violations were arrested in checks held Monday night in Circleville. Fines totalled $1,150. All but one had paid Wednesday.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28—(UP)—

Challenging the contention of Chancellor Adolf Hitler that the choice of war lies with Czechoslovakia, President Roosevelt today appealed again for peace — his final word, it is believed—and suggested an immediate conference to settle the Sudeten question.

There was no suggestion of American participation in any conference.

To Hitler's statement that the war choice lies with his small neighbor, Mr. Roosevelt replied that negotiations still stand open, and:

"They can be continued if you will give the word."

To Hitler Alone

This appeal was sent only to Hitler. Mr. Roosevelt's first message of Monday as addressed directly and personally to Hitler and President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia, and advisory copies were sent through regular diplomatic channels to the prime ministers of Great Britain and France.

The President acted after a day of abrupt developments. Two American naval vessels steamed eastward over the Atlantic for British ports. The state department advised Americans to avoid Europe unless they had essential business there.

Passenger carrying limitations on American commercial vessels were lifted by the commerce department to facilitate homeward movement of citizens.

The Fuehrer replied to Mr. Roosevelt's first plea by reciting wrongs done German minorities in Czechoslovakia. Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, of Great Britain, in an international broadcast, revealed that between his first and second visits to Germany, Hitler had increased his demands.

"I must say," Chamberlain told the world, "I find that attitude unreasonable."

Conference Suggested

Mr. Roosevelt picked up from there and a few hours later addressed himself again to the Fuehrer. He suggested an immediate conference of "directly" interested nations in some neutral European place.

Quickly from an administration spokesman came authoritative word that no part of his message should be construed as an intimation that the United States would be drawn into any negotiations, past, present or future. Well informed persons said this cable was Mr. Roosevelt's final move, his last word. It reiterated that the United States has "no political involvements."

But Mr. Roosevelt, himself, has warned that he is working on an hour-to-hour basis and that no attempt should be made either to guess or to interpret his plans.

The message had a last chapter ring. Briefly, but pointedly, it sought to repudiate the Hitler thesis that past wrongs to Sudeten Germans had created a situation in which the Czechs must now choose between peace or war. The President replied that the question before the world today is not of past injustices or errors of judgment, but of the "fate of the world today and tomorrow."

"The world asks of us who at this moment are heads of nations," he told Hitler, "the supreme capacity to achieve the destinies of nations without forcing on them as a price, the mutilation and death of millions of citizens."

"Resort to force in the great war failed to bring tranquility. Victory and defeat alike were sterile. That lesson the world should have learned."

Negotiations Still Open

"Present negotiations still stand open. They can be continued if you will give the word. Should the need for supplementing them

Army Corps Chief

BRIG. GEN. H. H. ARNOLD (above), Assistant Chief of the Army Air Corps, is acting head of the force since death of Major Gen. Oscar Westover, whose plane carried him to death at Burbank, Cal.

come evident, nothing stands in the way of widening their scope in a conference of all the nations directly interested in the present controversy.

"Such a meeting to be held immediately—in some neutral spot in Europe — would offer the opportunity for this and correlated questions to be solved in a spirit of justice, of fair dealing, and, in all human probability, with great permanence."

He said that the German-Czechoslovak differences "could" and "should" be settled and that use of force leading to general war "is as unnecessary as it is unjustifiable."

"Whatever existing differences may be," he said, "and whatever their merits may be—and on them I do not and need not undertake to pass—my appeal (Monday) was solely that negotiations be continued until a peaceful settlement is found, and that thereby a resort to force be avoided."

Agreement to peaceful solution by negotiation, the President said, would win Hitler recognition for outstanding service to humanity, but he added:

"Allow me to state my unqualified conviction that history, and the souls of every man, woman and child whose lives will be lost in the threatened war will hold us and all of us accountable should we omit any appeal for its prevention."

No U. S. Obligations

"The government of the United States has no political involvements in Europe, and will assume no obligations in the conduct of the present negotiations. Yet in our own right we recognize our responsibilities as a part of a world of neighbors."

"The conscience and the impelling desire of the people of my country demand that the voice of their government be raised again and yet again to avert and to avoid war."

Radio stations last night broadcast this second Roosevelt appeal by short wave throughout the world in English. They planned today to broadcast it to the far corners in five other languages, Portuguese, French, German, Italian and Spanish. It probably will be Mr. Roosevelt's most widely distributed utterance.

SECOND ANNUAL CORN FIELD DAY PLANNED FRIDAY

Roger Hedges Farm East Of Ashville To Be Scene

YIELD PLOT CHECKED

State Extension Service Aids In Arranging Program

Pickaway county's second annual Corn Field Day will be held Friday beginning at 1 p. m. on the Roger Hedges farm one-eighth of a mile East of Ashville.

On Mr. Hedges' farm is located one of the 33 comparison yield plots put out in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Ohio Agriculture Experiment station.

Pickaway county farmers will have an opportunity of seeing a comparison of yield, standing ability, maturity, length of stalk, adaptability to soil and climatic conditions in the county, and quality of ears on 18 different hybrid corns and two of the highest yielding strains of open pollinated corn grown in Pickaway county.

The record plots planted in cooperation with the Ohio Experiment station and the Agricultural Extension service in the county will be hushed and the corn weighed so that farmers may inspect the yield from these various hybrids. A portion of the various entries will be left standing so that the farmers may inspect both the harvest crop and the corn as it stands in the field.

The Field Day is one of the services of the Agricultural Extension service in the county in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Ohio Agriculture Experiment station.

Energy created by anger can be put to constructive use, say physicians, if the angry person will do physical labor after the spell has passed instead of brooding over the experience.

New Door Constructed For Village Bank Vault

By S. D. FREDLEY
Phone Ashville 79

The Mosler Safe Company of Hamilton, Ohio, has just completed the installation of a large, burglar proof door to the vault of the Ashville Banking Company. This door is equipped with all of the safety devices known to resist the drill and acetylene torch of the burglar. As an extra precaution, the two combination dials are controlled by a timing device consisting of four time watches anyone of which would hold the timer should all of the other three fail.

When closed, the door is secured by 24 bolts, each 2 1/2 inches in diameter and is finely finished in polished steel throughout, which greatly adds to the security of the vault.

Russell Costlow and Lester Reid have purchased what is known as the Mattie Baum place at Duvall consisting of eight acres of land and three dwellings. The largest of the dwellings, the former Baum home, is undergoing repairs and being made ready for occupancy.

The Parent-Teacher organization will hold its first meeting of the school year at the school building Thursday evening. A fine program has been arranged and those interested in our school should attend this meeting.

J. P. Staltz, now located at Houston, Texas, is here on a visit for a few days to the old home town. He tells us he is having success with his different kind of amusement game, Goball, and has many of them in use in the larger cities of the Lone Star State.
